

Quiz Night!

- Lots of families have been taking part in quizzes for entertainment during the lockdown. It's a great way to have fun with family and friends while all staying safe indoors.
- Your task is to plan and host a Quiz Night for your family or friends.
- The next slides will help you do this. It should take you 3-4 days to plan.

Quiz Night- Day 1

- Decide who, when and where
 - Who is going to be involved in your quiz? Will it be the whole family split into two teams? Will you invite other households to join in via Facetime, Skype or Zoom?
 - When will your quiz be? Think of a time and date that will suit everyone.
 - Where will your quiz be? In the living room? Online? You choose!
 - Lastly, invite the participants by asking them/ sending a message to them. Remember to tell them when the quiz is happening.

Quiz Night - Day 2

- Create some questions!
 - Decide on three different rounds (these could be things you are interested in, like animals or music). You might want to do 10 questions per round.
 - You could use the internet, quiz type games you already own, newspapers and magazines to help you think of questions.
 - Ensure you have all of the correct answers for your questions.
 - You could have picture rounds using pictures from Google Images (such as guess country of the flag, name the film from the still or name the celebrity)

Quiz Night- Day 3

- Create a set of rules for the quiz and write them down.
- Decide how you are going to score the answers. Will there be half marks? Will everyone score their own sheets? (This will obviously depend on if everyone is in the same room or not).

Quiz Night!

- Organise pens and paper for each family member to use. If you are not using a table they'll need something to lean on too.
- Make sure you have all of your questions ready to go and the answers for each one too.
- If you are using a website such as Zoom you will need to create a meeting and send the link to all participants so that they can join at the right time. (Get an adult to help you if you need to.)
